Woodlands A Source Of Profit

(By Roy Powell, County Agent)

SIX STEPS UP—AND TWICE AS HIGH

Most Georgia farmers and landowners are not realizing the profit that they should from their woodlands. Surveys indicate that the average Georgia woodland is producing at only one-half its capacity. This must be corrected! The Extension Service's Six-Step Forestry program will certainly do its part toward improving our forest and forest income. These six steps of forest management can double our timber values.

STOP WILDFIRES

Step No. 1 is the Prevention and Control of Wildfires. Over the past several years, Georgia has averaged about 10,000 wildfires annually. This number is second only to Florida and thousands of acres every year. Why let your trees and dollars go up in smoke?

USE IDLE LAND

Step No. 2 is Reforestation of Idle Land. Idle or unproductive land makes no profit for anyone. Why let land produce broom sedge or useless bushes when it could be producing dollars instead?

IMPROVE STANDS

Timber Stand Improvement is a third step. Timber stands which are crowded or are growing low quality or cull trees need to be improved. Many of our woodlands need insect or disease control. Others are being invaded by honeysuckle or kudzu. It takes an improved timber stand to make maximum profits.

DIVERSIFY USES

Step No. 4 is Diversified Utilization. Selling only one product from our woods is usually not the most profitable. A one-product economy is usually not too sound and quite often will not satisfy your woodland needs.

HARVEST WELL

Step No. 5 is Good Harvesting Practices and one of our most neglected. By harvesting our timber properly, we should be able to obtain better growth rates and insure a continuous production of desirable trees.

SELL WISELY

Step No. 6, Wise Selling Practices, is another which we have neglected. When a timber sale is made on the same basis as other business transactions, both the buyer and seller should be much better satisfied.

Each of these steps will be discussed in more detail in future articles.

"IT'S A FIRE"

I haven't kept an accurate count, but this nation must observe something like 152 special weeks a year. Last week was no exception. Oct. 5-11 was officially Fire Prevention Week in the U. S. A. While the special fire week has passed, the scourge of fire is just as real and tragic as before.

Soil-Water Conservation

By E. T. ("Red") Mullis

I would like to discuss a subject which is on the minds of most cooperators of the River Soil Conservation District who own farm ponds. The subject of stocking with fish.

At this time of the year many people are fishing their ponds. Many of these ponds were built about four years ago and due to a shortage of broom from the hatchery that year, many cooperators stocked their ponds with broom themselves. Almost without exception those people have complained about poor broom fishing. Many of those same ponds have been drained and refished recently and the result has been a poor harvest of broom.

When ponds are not properly stocked with the proper number of broom and bass, reasons for failure are many, but hard to explain because of many unknown factors. The only thing to do when a pond is "out of balance" is to drain the pond, kill all fish with rotenone and restock properly.

I would like to comment briefly on that business of proper stocking. First, it means the right number of fish for a given fertility level of the pond. You wouldn't expect 10 steers to grow very much if you put them on an acre of unfertilized pasture would you? The same is true with fish. Secondly, proper stocking means putting the right proportion of fingerling broom to fingerling bass. This means putting all broom of one size in the pond and all bass of one size and not all sizes. Thirdly, proper stocking means stocking at the right time. Fingerling broom in the fall or winter and bass in the spring.

Of course we all think, "But it won't happen to me." It can though, if you don't prevent it. National figures on tragic fires may not impress us—they seem impersonal and far away. But some morning this winter we'll pick up our morning paper and read about a family being burned to death because of a faulty heater. Then, too, we will likely hear about someone we know being badly scalded or burned.

Most of us already know someone whose body is badly scarred with burns, or some family who had to start all over because of a fire which destroyed their home and all their possessions. Let's remember, it can happen here—that most fires could have been prevented—and let's watch it.

Football At The Center

(By Tommy Martin)

Tuesday, Oct. 28, "Mighty Mites"

The Gold team held the Blues scoreless as Richard Bailey tallied for six points for their 6-0 win. Frank Hoke handled the ball well for the Gold team at the Quarterback position and backed up the line very well on defense. Richard Bailey runs from the fullback position while James Hagan and Harry Rickland run the halfbacks.

Bob Lane did some expert ball handling as Quarterback for the Blue team while the other backs, Hal Burke, fullback, Louie Blue, and Charles Webb at the halfback positions, worked hard.

The green team held their second place position as they downed the Red team 12-6 on Saturday. Today the Gold team defeated the Red team 12-6 to keep their first place lead in the league. The touchdowns were scored by James Hagan and Frank Hoke. The whole Gold line played an outstanding game as they kept the Red team to only six points. These six points were scored by the Quarterback, Ronnie Young.

The Greens slipped pass the Blue team by a close score of 12-7. Hugh Rockett and Ted Cleary scored the 12 points for the Greens. Bob Lane passed to Jimmy White early in the game for six points, and Hal Burke went up the middle for the extra point. Bob Lane and Steve Groover led the defensive attack for the Blue team while Ronnie Young, Shufford Wall, and Fred Page led the Green defense.

Saturday, Nov. 1 "Tiny Mites"

Today the Golds defeated the Blues by a score of 13-6. Jimmy Aldred intercepted a Blue pass and ran it back for the touchdowns. Then Bill Kelly passed to Jimmy Aldred for the extra six and Al Balwin added the other point.

Stacey Webb scored the only touchdown for the Blues to keep them in the scoring.

In the other game the Reds were victorious over the Greens 21-18. Lance Folds scored 19 points for the winners while Van Lanier, Donald Barnes, David Tillman scored six points each for the losers.

NOVEMBER MEETING OF FACULTY DAMES CLUB

The November meeting of the Georgia Teachers College Faculty Dames Club was held Wednesday evening, November 5, at the home of Mrs. Jack N. Arpette on Chelsea Circle. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Tyson, Mrs. Jess White and Mrs. Hubert McAllister.

Mrs. Fielding Russell presided over a short business session which concerned plans for the December meeting. Mrs. Zolton Parks introduced Mrs. Winfield Lee who entertained with the reading of William Faulkner's short story, "Two Soldiers."
